The Public School Laws. LETTER PROM DR. MCLEAN.

[Correspondence of the Raleigh Observer.] McLeansville, April 2, 1879.

EDITOR OBSERVER :- As the school bill passed by the Legislature failed to become a law, I desire, with your thirty cents. Some few verbal alchanges, and, as I believe, improvements made by this act in the present law. I do this in order that the attention of teachers and others interested in the common schools of the State may be directed to these changes, so that they may be discussed, and, if found to meet with popular favor, they may become the many households boys from 12 to 17 subjects of future legislation. No years old are too much administered doubt many other improvements to members of the family. Boys living the school law may be suggested by during those years are having the practical teachers.

Section 12 is so amended as to out cost, whereas the present law requires the Sheriffs to perform this some counties large sums are claimed by Sheriffs for this service. I believe, however, this defect is cured by another act of the Legislature. Section 15 requires the County Examiners to have four days of ex-

Section 17 provides for the appoint ment of school committees "by the County Board of Education, together with the magistrates of the county.' No argument is necessary to show the advantages of this mode over the this day, and we meet, sir, never to present, which requires the County Board to make the appointments.

Section 21 of the present law authorizes the county boards of adjoining counties to arrange for the sending of pupils across the lines of such counties in cases of great inconvenience. The new law gives this ing districts along the county lines. Section 26 stands as it is at prescommittee who reported the bill put the word " shall" in place of "may," in the fifth line of this section, but the House reversed it. The reason why the committee made this change was that they believed it to be in strict compliance with the requirements of the Constitution, (Art. IX, Sec. 3,) and from the further fact that the school term is admitted by

Section 35 of the new Act reads as follows:

This section seems to meet with very great favor from the teachers. it is believed that it would obviate a difficulty so much complained of both by teachers and patrons.

Section 47 authorizes the county Boards, in connection with the magistrates of the county, if they deem his salary. Part of the committee of education were in favor of making this absolute, another part being opposed to it. The section as it stands was offered as a compromise of Train Your Boy for Business.

There is one element in the home instruction of boys to which, says a Boston paper, too little attention has to by loving mothers or other female halcyon days of their existence.— Up in the morning just in season for make it the duty of the Secretary to breakfast, nothing to do but to start serve notices on committeemen with- off early enough not to be too late; looking upon an errand as taking so much time and memory away from duty, for which they are entitled to enjoyment; little thought of persofees, and I have understood that in nal appearance except when reminded by mother to "spruce up" a little, finding his wardrobe always where mother puts it—in fact, having nothing to do but enjoy himself.

Thus his life goes on till school ends. Then he is ready for business. He goes into an office where every thing is system, order and precision. He is expected to keep things neat and orderly, sometimes kindle fires, file letters, do errands-in short, become a part of a nicely regulated machine, where everything moves in systematic grooves, and each one is responsible for correctness in his department, and where, in place of ministers to his comfort, he finds task masters, more or less lenient, to be sure, and everything in marked contrast to his previous life

In many instances the change is too great. Errors become numer-ous; blunders, overlooked at first, get to be a matter of serious moment then patience is overtasked and the boy is told his services are no longer wanted. This is his first blow, and sometimes he never rallies from it. Then comes the surprise to the parents, who, too often, never know the real cause, nor where they have failed in the training of their child-

A Robe of Glass.

In the large basement room of the ome of S. Isaacs, at No. 1434 Mission Street, between Tenth and Eleventh, is now weaving the most wonderful fabric of which the voluminous history of unique feminine apparel furnishes any account. It is the material, as flexible as the finest of silk and as durable as Blue Jeans William's favorite stuff for trousers, for a lady's dress, and it is woven by the world renowned artist in glasswork, Prof. Theodore Greiner, out of innumerable colored strands of glass first spun by himself. Compared with the completed garment, the mythical glass slipper of the fabulous Cinderella will sink into as vulgar an insignificance as an exhausted Napa soda-bottle. A reporter called on him recently, and he very courteously showed him the entire process. Breaking an extra piece out of the soiled bottom of an already broken tumbler, he submit ted it to the heat of a blow-pipe un-til it became incandescent and soft. Then with a "stick" of glass he touched the molten portion, and with an expert motion, which may be described as a flip, he carried a thread so fine that it was almost invisible till it caught on the disc of a slowly-revolving wide wooden wheel of nineteen feet circumference, At a certain number of revolutions the strand was complete, and the wheel was stopped and it is removed. It then consisted of innumerable softly glistening threads finer than the finest floss silk. These strands are spun of all colors, and are then washed in a solution of water and beet-root sugar, which toughens them. The spinning is all done and occupied many weeks. The weavfeet long and the woof four feet, so that the material will cut to advantage. Only about ten inches a day can be woven, and the whole piece will not be completed for several months to come. - San Francisco Chronicle.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS. The Senate is yet engaged in discussing the Legislative, Executive and Judicial bills. It is believed that a vote will be reached by the end of the week and another veto be the result. These vetoes cost the people a good round sum of money, and the Republican party, as usual, is responsible for this expenditure of the people's money. Had there been any indication of fair dealing among the Radical ranks, all these troubles could have been avoided. Of course the Government machinery must be kept running somehow or other, but the use of the army at the caprice of the President, at the polls and other places, is dangerous to liberty and the freedom of elec-

"Undoubtedly as we have had occasion to say heretofore, the riders attached to the Legislative bill are of more practical importance just at It is the largest building in the this moment than that attached to the Army bill. But there is a grave difference involved. The Constitution does not contemplate the suspension of either Legislative, Executive or Judiciary, as might happen for lack of compensation. The Conatitution not only contemplates the absence of an army, but almost directs it. The right is given Congress to raise and support armies if thought advisable, but their lawful in on the occasion may be formed existence is limited by the Constitu- from the fact that arrangements are tion to two years. Vance and Blaine Hitch.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the Legislative, Executive and Judicial appropriation bill, on the 19th inst. It was agreed to take the vote on the so-called politcal part of the bill at 4 o'clock, 20th.

Blaine spoke at considerable length, taking ground against State rights, and also spoke of the system of education in Southern schools as ty but a controlling interest in it. said was a box of bacon shipped from being of an invidious character, and quoted from school books to show that such was the fact.

He was followed by Vance. Mr. Vance said he was requested to state cated by Southern men, said Mr. tensive scale. Vance, has a fair hearing in this them is the signal for reviving old ssues not pertinent to the question. He thought it essential to a proper consideration of this bill that it be discussed on its merits, but the arguments of its opponents were mere party denunciation. If this were an action at law and such answers to the complaint were filed they ould be rejected as frivolous. Mr. Vance made an earnest demand that proper respect be given to Southern epresentatives and commented upon the Republican logic concerning the elections which was that "elections shall be free if we have to surround the polls with bayonets; they shall be according to State laws if we have to overawe the civil authorties by force to have our way; they hall be pure if it takes John Davenport and every criminal in our ties to manage and give them purity; they shall be conducted withnt the appearance of violence if the artillery has to be turned on every ballot-box, and they shall be fair if. we have to arrest every man offering to vote the democratic ticket. ner, is entitled " Confidence."

HOW THEY BEAT THE GOVERNMENT -Another one of the many little devices and shrewd tricks resorted to to defraud the Government out of its legitimate revenue, was discovered at the North terday. Noticing what the way Linwood, a small station on the North Carolina railroad, to Darlington, S. C. his suspicions were at once aroused, for why should Linwood ship bacon to South Carolina? The box was opened and found to contain nine boxes, about two hundred and fifty pounds, of manu-factured tobacco, upon which there was not a single government stamp. The tobacco was accordingly seized by the collector and will be confiscated to the use of the govornment.

Not long since a box parporting to contain hardware, shipped from some point on the North Carolina railroad, was also found to contain manufactured tobacco packed in the same way. These and many other methods are resorted to and there is no telling how much to-bacco is disposed of without even having had the slightest acquaintance with government stamps. Then again stamps are often made to de double duty. Only last fall, a tar bucket, such as may be seen hanging on the coupling-pole of a road wagon, was picked up on the streets of Charlotte, which was subsequently ascertained to have two bottoms. between which were found a lot of stamps which had been used once, and were donbtless being taken back to do service again. They have also been found in feed troughs, in horse collars, and elsewhere.

Between operations of this sort and he work of the moonshiners, there is not much rest for the revenue officers. -Charlotte Observer.

Newbern truckers were greatly set back on Thursday by a telegram from Baltimore stating that the price of peas had dropped to 50 cents a box. Several thonsand boxes of peas shipped from New-bern have not yet reached their destinaand will now, of course, prove a total loss to the shippers, as the price realized from the sales will hardly pay the freights. Notwithstanding the fact that almost an incredible amoun has been picked and shipped from the farms near that city, the half have not been guthered, and now that it does not pay to ship them, the citizens will soon no doubt be welcome to all they have picked. After every one has been bountifully supplied, thousands of boxes will be left to rot on the vines.—Raleigh

TORACCO AGAIN.-Congress is again to wrestle with the tobacco question. A bill "repealing the tax on tobacco in the hands of the producer" has safely run the guantlet of a sub-committee and of the full Committee on Agriculture, and goes before the House with recomm dation to pass. The bill repeals all laws or parts of laws now in force levying and assessing a tax upon tobacco in the hands of the producer. The second section of the bill provides "that no farmer or planter shall be required to pay a special tax as a dealer in leaf to bacco for selling tobacco of his own production, or tobacco received by him as rent from tenants, who have produced the same on his land; and they may sell the same to persons other than those who have paid a special tax as leaf dealers or manufacturers of tobacco, snuff or cigars, or to persons purchasing lenf tobacco for export." The passage of the bill would, it is said by the Treasury officials, entail a loss of several millions of dollars yearly on the government. The subject, it is claimed. is a matter which belongs only to the Committee on Ways and Means, and it is said that when the bill is reported order to prepare this paper. The light from the Committee on Agriculture a point of order will be made against it. -Raleigh Observer.

We see the blossoms brightly glow, We listen to the brooklet's flow, We listen to the brooklet's now,
We hear the gay bird's merry cail,
We note the blue sky over all;
Lol while we say "The world is sweet,"
The white frost chills our waiting feet.

The babe, now cradled in our arms To-morrow wakes to girlhood's charms; Anon, a captive maiden stands, A willing captive in love's bands: Ere long, a world-worn train await Their anumons thro' death's sombre gate.

From flower to fruit is but a day; From youth to age a swift, brief way Yet, if we garner fast and well, Yet, if we garner fast and well, The ripening harvest who can tell? For time runs on; yet every hour Is rich with some God-given power.

All up and down the world we see Life's royal gifts are scattered free; The patient hand has but to bind The bounteous sheaves, each year to find Earth's green and gold will turn to wheat; Though time runs on, the world is sweet

We may not find the autumn way Has just the glory of the May, And silver head and waning sight May feel "life's summer was so bright May feel "life's summer was so bright;" And yet a chastened beauty glows Where full rich lives grow near their close

The world is sweet, yet time runs on And when our songs, our flowers are gor Lol others will the sickle wield Adown the same right harvest field; And others watch, on sunny eyes, The reapers bringing home their sheaves.

ACRICULTURAL.

Hogs Fattened Without Corn. As I have made a most successful experiment in fattening hogs this season, I feel it my duty, as well as my pleas. ure, to give your readers the benefit of it. Early in April, I planted an acre in my extra early sweet potatoes, expressly to turn my hogs on. I also planted two acres in chufas for the same purpose. The chufas I planted in drills two feet apart, and about a foot apart in the drills: they nearly covered the whole ground. The sweet potatoes were large enough to eat on the first of June, but I let them grow on until the first of August, when the ground was literally full of them. Then I turned on them some forty hogs. After they had run on them some six weeks and began to get full and lazy, I turned them on the chufas, I never saw hogs improve so fast. As I had heard old farmers say hogs must have corn to harden the flesh, I gave them about eight bushels; this is all the corn the hogs have ever had. On the 28th of November I killed them, and I have the finest meat that I ever tasted. The flesh is firm and has a sweetness that I have never before tasted in pork, as fresh meat, it is more desirable than the tenderest turkey. The same land that I had in these sweet potatoes and chufas would not have brought more than twenty bushels of corn in all. I linve long contended that we could not afford to raise corn on our poor old snday lands to feed stock, and when I can make such meat on sweet potatoes and chufas, I would not feed on corn if the hard-hearted parent. The old chap I could make one hundred bushels to is struck this time, however, and cards the acre. - CHAS. A. PEABOBY in Farm

Singular Farms.

To the unaccustomed eye the farms in the north of Holland present a singular appearance. They are seldom more than a foot above the level of the sea. The land is loose, spongy muck, and is very rich. It is subdivided into small parcels by canals. There are thousands of wind-mills which are used to pump water all the time. The dwellings are as neat as they possibly can be; they are built in small villages, clustered closely together. The roads are all payed, and not a particle of dust is ever seen. They measure distances by the hour, saving that from place to place it is ten hour's walk, four by boat, or two hours by rail. The houses are built as nicely as any in our cities, with about eight feet between the joists upon the first floor; all above is used for storing hay. On the side are the stables for the cattle, and they are models of neatness. The floors are all paved with brick. In these stables where the cattle are they Price $2.65 a year. Send for Premium List make butter, cheese, do the washing, ironing and baking and the general household work. As the air in Holland is always chilly the cows are blanketed in summer, and of course are warm in their stalls in winter, for fires are quite generally kept burning in two stoves through the coldest of the season. It is not uncommon to see hundreds of cheeses piled up in the stables.

The beet-sugar enterprise in Maine seems in a promising way, and the farmers can receive, this coming season, benefit from the attempt. The company, in order to encourage the growing of beets, pay the uniform price of $5.75 a ton for the beet, when delivered at any depot in the State; and this price makes the growing of beets the most profitable of farm crops, provided the culture be understood, and attention be given to the conditions for success.

There is no patch of land on the farm that yields so much comfort to the family, and shows so much profit on the ledger, as the garden, provided it is properly managed. Few farmers apparently believe this; certainly the great ma-A gentleman noticing that his wife's jority do not give such attention to their gardans as will secure the best results. They seem to regard gardening as fancy work, snitable for women and children.

> Potatoes cut to single eyes and planted on land that is sufficiently fertile, will produce a greater crop, according to the amount of seed planted, than in any other mode of field practice. But unless the land is quite rich the spronts will look very feeble when they first appear above ground, except those which start near the butt end of the potato.
